Tetuan, July 27.

The following is a Relation of the Proceedings of the Daniſh Commodore, M. Lutraw, at Saphy and Morocco, in concluding a Treaty of Peace with the Emperor of Morocco, and redeeming M. de Longueville, and ſeveral other Daniſh Subjects detain'd in Morocco; extracted from ſeveral Letters of Mr. George Andrews of Saphy, to William Mounteney and Company, of Sallee, under the following Dates.

May 21, 1753. ON the 12th Inſtant arrived here four Daniſh Men of War, and two Tranſports, under the Command of Commodore Lutraw, in order to redeem M. de Longueville and his People. The Commodore has already ſent on Shore the King of Denmark's Letter to the Emperor, with a Liſt of the Preſents he brings; and offers 18000 Dollars for their Redemption. They propoſe leaving here a Conſul, whom they have on board, and to eſtabliſh a Houſe of Buſineſs in this Place, and another at St^a. Cruiz, on the ſame Footing with the reſt of the Merchants ſettled here.

Yeſterday Evening ſome of our Chiefs ſet out for Morocco, with the King of Denmark's Letter, and the Commodore's Propoſals to the Emperor, who, 'tis ſuppoſed, will come into the Daniſh Meaſures this Time, there being no Appearance of any one's oppoſing them.

May 30. On the 25th Inſtant arrived from Morocco, thoſe who carried to the Emperor the King of Denmark's Letter, and Commodore Lutraw's Propoſals. The Emperor deſires that the Preſents ſhould be landed and ſent to Morocco, and that the Danes ſhould add to the Sum offered for the Ranſom of their Miniſter and other Subjects, 7000 Dollars; two Silver Tea Kettles, with their Stands and Lamps; 1500 Cannon Balls, of which 500 to be of 24 lb. Weight each; 1000 large Beams of Pine, forty Palms Length; 3000 Deal Boards, and 60 Quintals of Gunpowder; That if the Danes will conſent to this Augmentation, the Emperor promiſes to finiſh with them, and to deliver them M. de Longueville and his People. On the 26th M. Rey went on board to communicate the Emperor's Demands to the Commodore, who, with much Difficulty, and many Perſwaſions, was brought to agree to the whole; and M. Rey is bound to the Emperor for ſuch of the ſtipulated Articles as are not actually on board the Ships. On the 27th the Preſents were landed; and on the 28th M. Sombell ſet out again for Morocco, to inform the Emperor of the Succeſs of the Negociation. 'Tis ſuppoſed that in a few Days all the Captive Danes will be here from Morocco. The Preſents now ſent, are much the ſame as thoſe ſent laſt Year, excepting a fine Diamond Ring, a large Ruby curiouſly ſet in Gold, and two Pearl Necklaces.

June 16. On the 2d Inſtant arrived here from Morocco, M. de Longueville with all the Danes. M. Longueville ſtrove very much to have an Audience of the Emperor before his Departure, but in vain; the Emperor would not admit him, being highly incenſed againſt him for the Contents of ſome Papers, which he cauſed to be tranſlated here laſt Year, and which were Part of the ſaid M. de Longueville's Journal. M. Rey, and Lieutenant de Haas, (one of the Captives) went on board M. Lutraw, and ſent the Money on Shore; and then the Danes were immediately embarked. M. de Longueville went in the laſt Boat, and on his embarking, the Town ſaluted him with three Guns; and when he got on board, the Commodore, and all the reſt of the Ships, made a general Diſcharge of all their Artillery: The Town anſwered with 22 Guns: But in the Midſt of thoſe Rejoycings, a moſt dreadful Accident happened, the Falſter Man of War, of 40 Guns and 320 Men, commanded by Capt. Hoogland, unfortunately took Fire, and was entirely loſt, notwithſtanding all the Efforts the reſt of the Squadron made to ſave her. 'Tis imagin'd that this Conflagration proceeded from a Lamp which the Carpenter of the Ship left lighted in his Cabbin, when he went upon Deck to ſee the Ambaſſador M. de Longueville and his Retinue paſs by on board the Commodore. That the Shock which the Falſter ſuffered on the Diſcharge of her Artillery ſaluting the Ambaſſador, cauſed the Lamp to fall upon a Heap of Oakham in the Carpenter's Cabbin, which took Fire with ſo much Violence, that when it was perceived, it was impoſſible to extinguiſh it. Capt. Hoogland was at that Time on board the Commodore, but upon News of the Miſfortune, fortune, he came along Side his Ship in his Boat, and ordered them to cut the Cables, and run the Ship on Shore, in caſe they could not extinguiſh the Flame; accordingly the Cables were cut, and the Ship left to drive under her Main Topſail and Foreſail. Mean Time the Daniſh Commodore, and two other Ships, cut their Cables, got under Sail, and ſtood off to avoid the Fire, or its Effects. In about 15 Minutes after the Fire was diſcovered on board the Falſter, it had reached from Head to Stern; and about Half an Hour after Five o'Clock in the Afternoon the Ship came on Shore to the Southward of this Town, at a League Diſtance, and there continued burning till between Eight and Nine o'Clock, when the Fire ſeized the Powder Room, and blew up with a moſt horrible Noiſe, with whatever remain'd of the Ship above Water, or of the Crew yet unconſumed; of the latter 133 Perſons, ſeveral of Diſtinction, periſhed either in the Flames or Floods; the Boats of the other Ships ſaved 163, and 24 ſwam on Shore here.

[Price Two-Pence.]

On the 24th arrived from Morocco the Daniſh Conſul and M. Rey, with the 24 Shipwreck'd People. What I can as yet learn, regarding their Negociations is, That the Daniſh Conſul has concluded with the Emperor a Treaty of Peace and Commerce, by which the Emperor obliges the Danes to ſet at Liberty all Moor Slaves they have in their Country; and that if henceforward any Moor Slaves ſhould eſcape on board their Ships of War in France, Spain, Portugal, &c, that they ſhould be protected in like Manner as they are by the Engliſh on ſuch Occaſions: That it ſhall be permitted the Emperor to ſend Agents into Denmark, there to purchaſe whatever Goods or Materials he ſhall think proper, and to load them on Daniſh Bottoms, to be tranſported hither, with all Manner of Security; the Emperor paying to ſuch Ships which ſhall be employed in his Service, the Freights, &c. agreed upon: That all Diſputes or Differences ariſing between the Danes and Moors, ſhould be ſettled according to the Mooriſh Law: That all Diſputes between the Danes themſelves, ſhould be ſettled by their Conſul: And that in Caſe of any Diſagreements between the Danes and Reſidents of any other Nation, it ſhall be decided by a General Aſſembly of the Commerce. The Emperor is to give them a Houſe here, and another at St^a. Cruiz, &c. The Conſuls Orders from the Court of Denmark are, as I hear, not to moleſt any Reſident of other Nations eſtabliſhed here, either in the Poſſeſſion of Houſe, or Management of his Trade, but to take Care to live with every one in good Harmony.

On the 26th Inſtant were embarked here, very well ſatisfied with their Treatment on Shore, the 24 Shipwreck'd Danes belonging to Captain Hoogland; and we hear that the Emperor has ordered the Governours of this Place to regale the Daniſh Men of War with Proviſions and Refreſhments, in his Name, to the Value of 600 Ducats.

Liſbon, Aug. 4. The Princeſs of Beyra is ſo well recovered from her late Illneſs, that her Royal Highneſs is ſet out from hence to join the Court at Belem. The King has appointed Don Franciſco Joſepho de Morcaës-Pimentel, to be Governour of the Fort of St. Jean de Dieu, ſituated near Braganza; and Don Luis Antonio de Brito Lemos to be Captain General of the Province of Paraïba in the Principality of Brazil.

Vienna, Aug. 22. Yeſterday Morning their Imperial Majeſties, accompanied by Prince Charles of Lorrain, ſet out for the Camp of Moldau-Thein, where they propoſe to arrive this Evening. The Princeſs Charlotte of Lorrain is, during their Imperial Majeſties Abſence, to reſide at Eiſenſtadt with the Princeſs Eſterhaſi. Prince Charles of Lorrain being to return to the Netherlands immediately after the Separation of the Camps in Bohemia, the greateſt Part of his Equipage and Baggage is already ſet out for Bruſſels. The Count d'Apremont de Linden, General of Horſe, who has lately been appointed to command the Imperial Troops in Lombardy, under the Direction of the Duke of Modena, is ſoon to ſet out for that Purpoſe; and beſides the uſual Appointments, 10,000 Florins yearly has been aſſigned him for his Table. Don Joſeph da Sylva, formerly Envoy Extraordinary from the King of Portugal to the States-General of the United Provinces, and who is going to reſide in Quality of Miniſter Plenipotentiary from the King his Maſter, at the Court of Naples, had laſt Wedneſday, after a Stay of two Months here upon a particular Commiſſion, his Audiences of Leave of their Imperial Majeſties, and the next Day ſet out for the ſaid Court.

Hague, Sept. 4. The States of Holland and Weſt Frieſland are to open their uſual Aſſembly on the 12th Inſtant. According to the laſt Advices from Soeſtdyck, the Princeſs Dowager of Orange, Mother of the late Prince Stadtholder, was ſoon expected there, in order to paſs ſome Time with her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Governante. M. Caniſius, Major General of Foot in the Service of the Republick, died lately at Ter-Goes, in an advanced Age.
